In the Life of... Gail Carson Levine

Gail Carson Levine grew up in New York City and has been writing all her life. In high school, her poems were published in two anthologies of teenage poetry. She and her husband, David, collaborated on a children's musical that was produced by a theatre in Brooklyn. Today, she, David and their Airedale, Jake, live in a 200-year-old farmhouse in Brewster, New York. Some of her novels include Ella Enchanted, The Two Princesses of Bamarre, The Princess Test, Cinderellis and the Glass Hill, and many other works, mostly fantasy.

Fantasy Writing Contest

Due to the major successes of Gail Carson Levine, who makes books of princesses, fairies, dragons and magic, our next contest will be a fantasy writing contest. You are free to write what you please but we ask you to keep the length of the story to 1/2 to one page. Also keep the story short enough that you can read it in 3 to 5 minute's time.
