

Dual Credit Eligibility

Alamo Colleges classifies all dual credit students as either non degree-seeking or degree-seeking, and these two categories of students have different eligibility requirements.

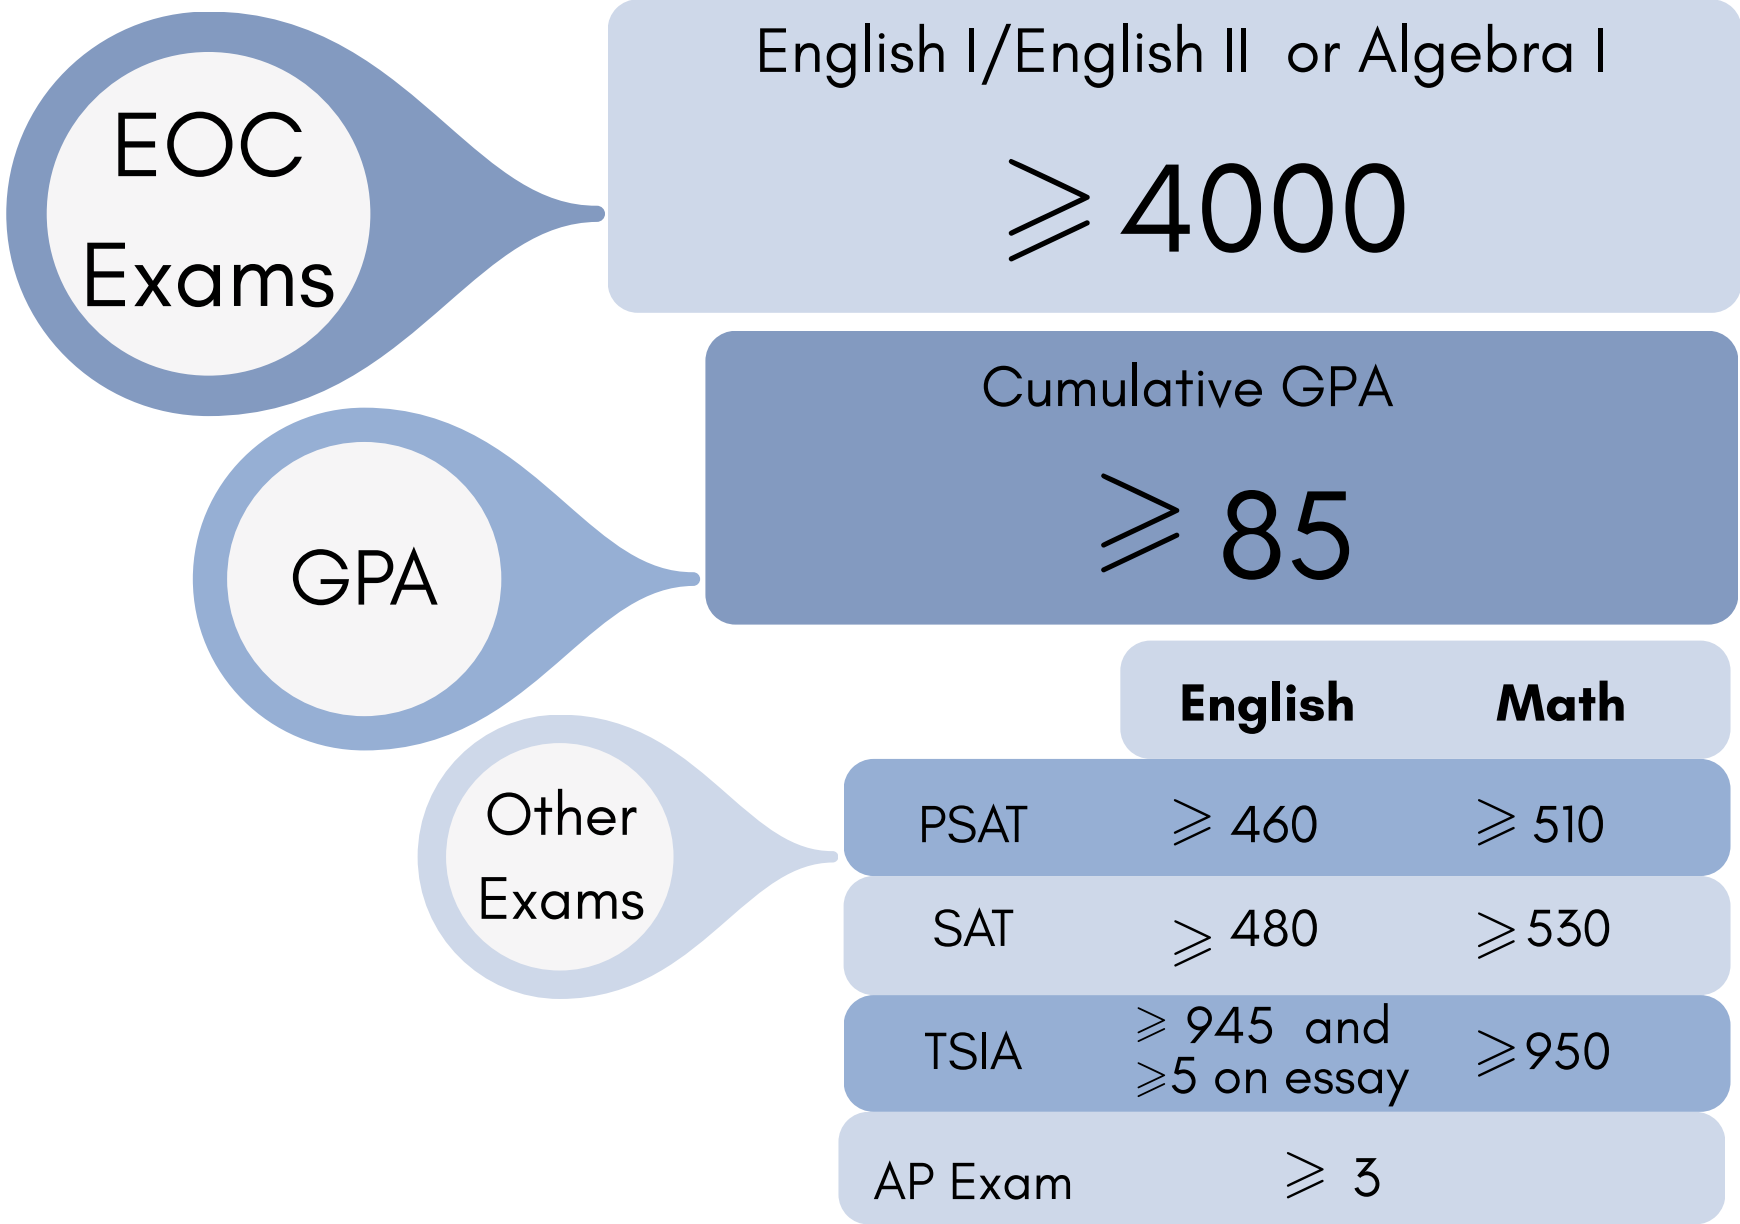

Non Degree-Seeking

Students who have earned 15 or fewer college credit hours, including those who wish to enroll in dual credit courses for the first time

Degree-Seeking

Students who have earned more than 15 college credit hours and wish to continue taking dual credit courses

Non degree-seeking students who wish to enroll in an academic dual credit course must meet ONE of the following NISD-established criteria based on EOC scores, GPA, or other standardized exam scores as indicated below.

Degree-seeking students who wish to continue taking dual credit courses must demonstrate college readiness through ONE of the following measures:
