Tim Goins	Taft HS	Coach Goins has dedicated most of his coaching career at Taft. He has done a wonderful job with the baseball program, but his biggest contribution is the connection he makes with his student athletes. He has decided not to coach baseball anymore this year. Once his baseball players found out this was his last year coaching baseball and their season got cut short, they did a drive-by parade, each of them writing a message to him on a baseball. It was so moving to see this outpouring of love. Thank you Coach Goins for all your years of service at Taft High School.	Taft HS Athletic Boosters

Pasqual Gonzalez	NISD Communications	Mr. Pascual Gonzalez was the first face that I saw and the first voice that I heard at the very first formal NISD ceremony that I attended. Mr. Gonzalez was the Master of Ceremonies at the first Educator of the Year that I attended. It was clear that he had total command of the whole well-orchestrated ceremony that evening. That was one example of well Mr. Gonzalez performed his primary job of being the official public spokesperson for NISD for many years. Through times of honored students and positive events as well as moments of tragedy or negative NISD employee actions, Mr. Gonzalez always presented the district in a positive yet honest posture. As the face and voice of NISD for so many years, community members looked to Mr. Gonzalez for that always present professional and transparent notes of facts and district communication.	Tony Segovia

Ellen Sutton Principal	Meadow Village	Ellen Sutton was my first campus principal after being hired as a brand new first year educator. During my first year, she also employed about 15 other new first year and new to NISD veteran educators to complement the already veteran cadre of campus educators. From that first day campus meeting, Ms. Sutton immediately started molding campus educators into a group of educational professional striving to become part of a local community of learners, from students to parents to local businesses. Everyday Ms. Sutton proved to be a professional and compassionate leader, working with teachers and parents to provide the best education in the safest and most inclusive environment possible for our young students. For two years under her guidance and leadership our students excelled in academics even while many struggled with personal issues. Ellen Sutton would continue to excel as a principal at another NISD elementary campus following Meadow Village but she had already put her prints on the history of the campus.	Tony Segovia
